ROTEL

HERE are two of the newest ROTEL Stereo Headphones, the RH-700 and RH-630, that we would like to have you get acquainted with. Both are the finest examples of what many years of engineering research and experience on Dynamic Stereo Headphones have produced in our plants at Roland Electronics.

It is easy to make a high-performance headphone if the weight is to be of no consequence. But then who wants to feel like wearing a pair of loudspeakers around his head. That is why ROTEL Headphones are constructed with component parts selected not only for quality but for lightness, also. So, with a ROTEL, you can wear it all you want without ending up with sore ears.

For performance, only by actually putting on either the RH-700 or RH-630, will you be able to understand what ROTEL Headphones have to offer — the full dynamic range coupled with that superb stereo separation only headphones can deliver. You will hear music reproduced with realism you did not think possible from recorded sources.

With the RH-700 and RH-630, the space between the speaker and your ear has been designed to function as a finest sound chamber. Unlike loudspeakers that often must be chosen to match the acoustics of your listening room, a ROTEL Headphone is always just right for you.

If you ever want to shut out the constant bombardment of noises of modern living so that you may enjoy the music of your choice in peace, then we suggest that you try on a ROTEL and close your eyes. It will pleasantly enwrap you with rich-bodied fullness and caress you with delicate nuances of music.

It will come closer to offering you that sense of total involvement with the music that you get only from live performances.
